Information in this report is provided as a service to the community. Information* in this report may not be accurate. Natural water sources in Arizona can and do rapidly change. Water cache may be empty. The user of this information is solely responsible for their own safety. Hike your own hike. Man made water sources are listed as TOWN or other facility. Some locations may be closed and no water available.

The LOCATION will indicate if a water source is off trail with a note, such as 0.5m E

It is recommended that water sources be verified with local sources, such as Forest Service Ranger Stations, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management, or AZA Trail Stewards. Water quality may vary greatly and it is recommend that water sources be treated to reduce risk of water borne diseases.

Abbreviations: m - mile; N - north; E -east; S - south; W - west

Mileage -- south to north -- agrees with Arizona Trail Segment Passages and GPS data at www.aztrail.org. (Mileage may be slightly different from "The Official Guide" book.)

The year 2002 was the driest on record (and in the past 1,500 years). The springs of 2000 and 2001, and, especially 2003 and 2004, were very wet. Rain or snow fell on hikers in all years except 2002. Although 2005 was considered the 10th (or 11th) year of a drought; there was a lot of rain/snow in Fall 2004 and Winter/Spring 2005. During Fall 2005 and Winter 2005-06, there has been very little rain/snow. As of March 9, 2006, there are 144 days without rain in Phoenix. On March 1, 29 of 34 snow measuring locations had no snow, however a mid-March storm dropped 1-2 feet in the mountains. The extremely wet Winter/Spring of last year is still providing water for some springs, seeps, and creeks as of March 1, 2006.
